Civil legal aid provides low-income immigrants advice, representation, and information so they can protect their rights, safety, and financial stability—which have become paramount during the COVID-19 pandemic. During the pandemic, immigration cases have increased by 15%.

Legal Aid lawyers help immigrants and refugees

- Ensuring fair treatment and due process
- Assisting with DACA (Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals) and TPS (Temporary Protected Status)
- Educating people on their rights and responsibilities through workshops
- Helping people secure the right to live and work in the U.S. legally
- Removing barriers to education for immigrants
- Protecting access to safety net programs

Low-income people at or below 125% of the federal poverty level ($34,688 per year for a family of four) qualify for civil legal aid.

Antonio’s Story

Antonio*, born in Guatemala, was severely neglected and abused as a child. At 16, he left his homeland on a dangerous journey to the U.S., eventually settling in Lynn. He contacted the Children’s Law Center of Massachusetts, which helped him obtain a custody order, defended Antonio against removal, obtained a Special Immigrant Juvenile visa and, finally, secured him a Green Card. Despite numerous restrictions and delays posed by COVID-19, CLCM advocated for Antonio remotely to ensure his due process rights. *Name has been changed.

Civil legal aid organizations in Massachusetts closed

2,397 immigration cases in FY21

Last year legal aid provided

$103 million in economic benefits to the Commonwealth and its residents